Not Elected to Lead

Dance, Says Marshall

Washington, March 4.—Governor Marshall, who arrived here today grew positive when he learned that some of the ultra-fashionable society people of Washington were accusing him of breaking over the traditions of the vice presidential office by living rather modestly at a hotel instead of renting a mansion and preparing to entertain on a grand scale.

"I am not here to lead a german," he said. "There is nothing in the Constitution of the United States which says that the Vice President must rent a big house and entertain lavishly. The Baltimore convention knew when it nominated me that I was a poor man."

"The people of the United States knew that fact when they elected me. I am not disposed to throw down the gauntlet, but if it ever becomes necessary, do so I shall accept the jeers of those who would criticize me on this account with perfect confidence that the plain citizenship of the country will find no fault with me."

As is usual, when the roads get bad, that problem is being discussed—every fellow for himself, and your writer wants to have his say. We are sure it is an utter impossibility to have a good dirt road in this county during the wet, freeze and thaw seasons. So what's the use of fooling away time and money digging holes and filling them up again. It is time to put something on the roads that the rains or freeze and thaw will not disturb. For example, there was once a piece of road near here about 100 yards long that continually over flowed. The road hands tried a number of remedies, but teams continued to mire in the mud and it grew worse instead of better. Finally it occurred to Squire Hodges to ask for a small appropriation to levy and gravel the place, which was granted. The levy was made and about 5 or 6 inches of gravel placed on top—that was about six years ago, and since then that place has always been a good road and need no work whatever. We've got the rock and gravel laying around where its not needed—put it on the road where it is needed and we will have the road problem solved.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer. Famous London Chef.

AN ENGLISH COOK'S EXPERIENCE.

By Martha McCulloch Williams. Because I have baked in paper bags after M. Soyer's method, I give full credence to this report from England, where thousands of housewives have discarded the pot-and-pan method of cooking for the paper bag system. I may add that I have myself verified by actual demonstration most of the report. So I pass it on to my fellow housewives in full confidence of its accuracy.

"The chef," runs the report, "has cooked the following items without the use of a single dish or tin of any description, merely pouring the food into the bag, to the undisputed astonishment of every cook and housewife in the audience:

Yorkshire Pudding.
Fruit cakes in all varieties.
Puff Omelets.
Jam Turnovers.
Stewed Green Gages.
Banana Pasties.
Fruit Vol-au-vents.

"Despite the fact that no tins nor dishes whatever have been used in the cooking of the above items, the brownness, consistency, tenderness or lightness of everything, has been a revelation of perfect cookery to those who have seen or tasted the food."

The omelet, as most marvelous, deserves and shall have the place of honor. It was thus made and proportioned:

Omelet Souffle.—Work four yolks of eggs with two and a half ounces of castor sugar to a light cream. Whisk up five whites of eggs to a stiff froth and add them carefully to the creamed yolks, together with a level tablespoonful of corn flour. A few drops of vanilla essence should also be added to flavor the omelet. Have ready a well buttered bag, pour in the omelet mixtures carefully, seal and place on the grid shelf. When done place on a hot dish and remove the paper bag. Make an incision in the center of the omelet and put into it two or three spoonfuls of jam.

Here is the fruit cake cooked without a pan, inside a paper bag. It sounds not only toothsome, but festive: Take eight ounces fresh butter, eight ounces castor sugar and four new-laid eggs, and beat up well together into a thick cream. To this mixture add eight ounces best white flour, four ounces sultana raisins, four ounces dried currants and four ounces candied peel. Stir the whole mixture hard till thoroughly blended and pour into a paper bag greased very liberally with clarified butter. Seal up, then with a fork or skewer prick two small holes near each corner of the bag's upper side, taking care not to prick the bottom as well. Put the loaded and pricked bag on a wire trivet and set the trivet in the oven, either on the grid-shelf or the solid bottom—the feet will save the bag from scorching. Bake for fifty-five minutes. Take out and cut into fingers when nearly cold.

Light Biscuit.—Sift well through a quart of best flour three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Cut fine into the sifted flour a lump of lard or butter the size of the fist. If butter is used, there is no need for salt; with lard add half a small teaspoonful measured level. Mix as quickly as possible into a soft but not sticky dough, wetting up with sweet milk. Roll half an inch thick, cut out with a small cutter, brush lightly over the tops with milk, and bake in a bag, well greased, and spread flat upon a wire mat. Put in the biscuit so they will not touch—a cake turner is handy for this. Seal up, put in a hot oven, slack heat when the bag turns brown, but not too much. Bake twelve to fifteen minutes.

CUTLETS AND STILL MORE CUTLETS.

By Nicolas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Cutlets a la Paysanne.—Take four to eight cutlets, mutton or lamb. Trim them of all superfluous fat. Scrape the bone neatly. Dust them with a little minced shallot and spiced seasoning—i. e., pepper, salt, a tiny grate of nutmeg and a little celery salt mixed. Grease a bag thickly, put in the cutlets, add to them half a pint of half-cooked peas, an ounce of bacon, cut small, a pound of new potatoes and half pint of stock or water. If but four cutlets are used, a gill of stock will be sufficient. Fold over the bag, seal, put on the broiler and cook in a moderately hot oven for an hour. Open bag, empty into a very hot dish, and arrange the peas and potatoes in a border with a heated fork. Stir up the gravy and send to table. Note that the potatoes must be also parboiled before being put in the bag.

Cutlets a la Espagnol.—Take four to six cutlets. Trim as directed in the foregoing receipt. Dust them with pepper and salt. Have ready a greased bag and six ounces of freshly boiled rice. Mix with the rice plenty of tomato catsup. Place the rice in the bag, then put the cutlets on top of the rice. Fold, clip, put on broiler, and cook for half an hour in a moderately hot oven.

HIGH LIGHTS IN INAUGURALS

Of Greatest Presidents Set Beside Wilson's Own Confession Of Faith.

WASHINGTON.

"I know that as, on one side, no local prejudices, no separate views or party animosities, must misdirect the comprehensive and equal eye, which ought to watch over this great assemblage of communities and interests; so, on another the foundation of our national policy must be laid in the pure and immutable principles of private morality, and the pre-eminence of a free government be exemplified by all the attributes which can win the affections of its citizens and command the respect of the world. There exists in the economy of nature an indissoluble union between virtue and happiness and between duty and advantage."

JEFFERSON.

"Equal and exact justice to all men of whatever state or persuasion, religious or political; peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations; the support of the State governments in all their rights; the preservation of the general government in its whole constitutional vigor; absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority, the vital principles of republics from which is no appeal but to force, the vital principle and immediate parent of despotism; freedom of religion, freedom of the press and the freedom of person. This road alone leads to peace, liberty and safety."

LINCOLN.

"I take the official oath today with the mental reservations and with no purpose to construe the constitution or laws by any by-pericritical rules. I plead with my dissatisfied countrymen not attempt the dissolution of the Union. We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chord of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely as it will be, by the better angels of our nature."

WILSON.

"At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to cleanse, to reconsider, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in haste to succeed and be great. Our thought has been that 'Every man lookout for himself; that every generation lookout for itself,' while we have reared don't machinery which made it impossible that any but those who stood at the levers of control should have a chance to look out for themselves!"

William Redd, farmer, Marion, Ky. says: "Some time ago I gave a statement, telling of a case of kidney trouble. I had severe pain in the small of the back and it ached and felt lame in the morning upon arising. I tired very easily and was nervous at all times. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and contained sediment. Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I began using them. I was helped almost at once. There has been no recurrence of my trouble, but I keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand for emergency, if I should happen to catch cold or my kidneys need attention."

If a Hen Swallows Hog Bristles

She Gets Into Trouble.

The following is taken from the current issue of "Farm and Fireside."

"After butchering-time we found some of our hens drooping around, combs pale, sleepy-eyed, trying to eat and giving up the job as a bad one after swallowing a few grains of corn, yet twisting their necks as though they were full of feed? We caught them and examined their crops and found them packed with hog-hair."

"With a sharp knife we made an incision in the crop, and with a button-hook we pulled out hookful after hookful until the hair had all been removed, then the incision was sewed up, and the hen got well—but several others we operated on didn't get well. "Since that time we have made it a special job to clean up the hog-hair after the day's butchering."

Look For a Boy Anywhere.

David Grayson, writing one of his new "Adventures In Contentment" in the February American Magazine, makes this observation:—

"Long ago I made a motto about boys: Look for a boy anywhere. Never be surprised when you shake a cherry-tree if a boy drops out of it; never be disturbed when you think yourself in complete solitude if you discover a boy peering out at you from a fence corner."
